

Bake with The Bible is a journey through the Gospels through the lens of bread. In this six-lesson program, your children and youth will discover the nearness of God, who meets us on our hands and in our bellies via bread.

Each week includes a recipe*, discussion questions, and book recommendations, as well as Scriptural and cultural-historical lessons. You'll receive both the children's version, designed for kids ranging in age from 3-10, and the youth version, perfect for middle school and high school groups. You will also receive printable handouts to send home with each family every week.

While the recipes are not gluten free, the lessons are meaningful even for those with wheat allergies.*

There are many different ways you can implement the program. It can be used any time of year, but it works especially well over the course of Lent. Many churches have found it useful to implement during Sunday School or youth group, as well as during intergenerational formation hour. The adults are always eager to learn more about bread too!

This program also makes for a great Vacation Bible School, working through a lesson a day throughout the week—plus one on Sunday!

Within the curriculum, we offer directions for in-person, virtual, and hybrid Sunday school gatherings, making it valuable no matter your current Covid policies.

You will receive the curriculum as a digital download available to print and implement immediately. Once purchased, you can re-use the program as many times as you desire. Repeat it year after year to help the lessons sink in even more.

Lessons include:

The Temptations of Jesus

The Parable of Leaven

The Lord's Prayer

Feeding the 5,000

Jesus' Last Supper

The Road to Emmaus
